

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A work assignment system for assigning and composing a work formed from a plurality of work standards to a plurality of stations includes a display
5 means for displaying the names of the plurality of work standards as composition targets, a condition input - means for inputting a composition condition, an assignment means for dividing the plurality of work standards in accordance with the composition condition
10 and assigning one group of the divided work standards to a station, and an output means for outputting the assignment result of the work standards of each station to a work assignment file.